THE CITIZEN.

FRIDAY, JUNE 30, 1879.

LOCAL MATTERS.

From Saturday's Daily.

Mr. R. W. C. MITCHELL, short-hand court reporter for this district, returned from Tombstone yesterday and left for San Francisco to-day, where he will remain a few weeks, meet and return with his wife. Mr. M. also hopes to induce men of means to construct a custom quartz-mill for Tombstone mines. Neither the Tombstone nor Corbin mill will touch custom work, each being fully provided with ore from the mines of the respective companies. There are thousands of tons of pay ore on the dumps of other mines in the district, and much more would have been if there had been any prospect of getting it crushed in the neighborhood. Mr. M. informs us that the Corbin mill-site is graded ready for the building and that as matters are now progressing, Mr. Corbin believes his mill will be in operation by September 15.

The Fourth of July festival is booming in Tucson—just how intensely, we are not certain, but booming it is. Parties have been called at this office and made divers suggestions in addition to those yesterday in THE CITIZEN. It is thought that certain athletic games might be made an interesting feature—such as running, jumping, tumbling, &c. It is also the opinion of some that the Declaration should be read, an oration delivered and there a patriotic song be sung. It is not easy to see how the business can be made to take formal and orderly shape without a meeting of citizens. THE CITIZEN's columns are freely open for suggestions or for call for meeting to consider the subject.

The steam saw-mill and necessary fixtures for it, for Morse & Co., in the Chiricahua mountains, passed through Tucson to-day per train of Barnett & Block. This is a complete mill and will be put in operation with the least possible delay. More and cheaper lumber for the many new mining districts and ranches in southeastern Arizona, will greatly help along improvements and all enterprises.

AFTER a long period of peace in Sonora—say several weeks—there comes reports to Tucson that times are likely to be more enlivened down there by the activities of rebellion. This time the movement is naturally against Serna, he being recognized as the lawful governor. The reports indicate that Gen. J. Figueroa, and former Governor, is thought of as the proper man to supersede Serna. There seems to be a surplus of patriotism or independence in Sonora.

WHATEVER undisciplined people may say or think, there is still a good deal of matrimonial business on the tapis in Tucson. There are several young men and some a little older who act as if nothing short of matrimony would reduce them to an entirely rational condition. But they are not to be specially pitied, for we all have had the ailment once or ought to have it.

OUR report a few days ago of a shooting and stabbing affray at Camp Thomas turns out to have been nothing but a drunken row. Two of the parties were fined by the Justice of the Peace, and the third party, who was wounded, is getting well.

AFTER being divorced for about ten years, as we perceive by the Chronicle, Judge H. B. Summers, of Florence, has remarried his former wife, Mrs. H. Summers, of San Francisco, on June 7, 1879. Judge E. D. Wheeler tied the knot anew.

Mrs. Wm. Zeckendorf celebrated her birthday yesterday by inviting a few choice friends around her hospitable board. May she live to celebrate many more natal days as happily.

THE heavy winds for weeks past, have subsided and a refreshing and moderate breeze prevails. Nights now bear the best Italian variety.

CAPT. G. C. SMITH, U. S. A., received a fine and costly carriage by train of Barnett & Block to-day.

From Monday's Daily.

For some weeks past, Mexican silver has been plentiful and greenbacks scarce in Tucson, and the problem with business men have been how to convert this silver into exchange available in San Francisco and New York. It is still a matter of business workmen although made much easier by the late advanced price of silver. On the 12th, Mexican silver was quoted in San Francisco at 85 and private telegrams say it was 86 on the 10th, whereas a month ago it was 86. Owing to the Mexican trade and other causes, our merchants have at all times sold goods and took in payment this coin. The rise is really welcome news and there are indications of a still higher price for both Mexican and American silver coins.

CAPT. WHEATLEY, of Nine-Mile Station, has been lucky enough, after much labor and expense, to find and retake the three horses stolen from him about a week since, mention of which was made in THE CITIZEN. They were found with the thief, near Sante. The authorities refused to give the man (James Lopez) with the horses, therefore he is at large, to make another stealing trip into Arizona at his pleasure. It is reported that the people in Arizona who suffer by the Sonora thieves will make short work of the rascals if they can catch them, and they think all can not escape their vigilance.

THE CITIZEN is informed that suit has been commenced in our District Court against the Calabasas Land and Mining Company for $100,000 by O. W. Steeler, formerly of Tucson, but now resident in Minnesota; also, that $40,000 in cash in an Eastern bank belonging to the company has been attached by parties holding claims against the company. The same authority says other suits will soon be commenced against the company.

THERE is some article wire work in the door-screen of Craigie & Horton, on Main street. Oldenities by lakes and rivers, vessels on the water and shrubbery on shore, are some of the nice features. These attractions are likely to make the painting water stop and admire, and the abundance of coloring and invigorating beverages within are temptations to walk in.

CHIEF JUSTICE FRENCH has appointed George A. Cline, Esq., Clerk of the District Court for Pima County. Mr. Cline has been acting Clerk for several months, and will undoubtedly continue to prove a satisfactory officer. He is very attentive to business and thoroughly honest.

HON. M. W. STEWART, of Fort Grant, is in town. We regret to learn that his health requires a change of climate. He intends to leave to-morrow for California. He may soon have his health restored and return.

BARNETT & BLOCK's train brought yesterday 18,000 pounds new merchandise from

Circulating Library—Post hotels in English and Spanish at J. S. Mansfield's Pioneer News Depot.

OUR fruit markets are now partially supplied with peaches, apricots and pears in addition to oranges, lemons, limes, etc. Nearness of the railroad accounts for them. Choice ripe tomatoes are also luxuries the railway helps us to.

THE assessment roll of Pima county has been completed and turned over to the Board of Supervisors who will meet July 7 and from day to day thereafter as long as required as a Board of Equalization.

THERE is a report in Tucson that Mr. Frank Corbin is about to visit Patagonia with a view of erecting smelting works. If true, it must be the Orion works now lying in a corral in Tucson.

EVANS, a Canadian, and Frost, an American, desecrated the Sabbath yesterday by running a foot race. Frost's conscience evidently smote him, for he made a poor run and got badly beaten.

THE CITIZEN acknowledges with thanks the receipt of a neatly printed "Host of Troops" serving in the Department of Arizona under Gen. Willcox, the data being brought up to June 1, 1879.

MAJOR STEFFEN, Paymaster U. S. A., returned to Camp Lowell on Saturday, after an extended pay trip to the posts South, East and Northeast.

THE Phoenix Herald is denoting in fancy altogether when it says the Tucson papers are afraid that the Railroad Company will leave Tucson out in the cold.

MAJOR MORGAN and T. L. Siles, attorneys, are out on an inspection of Tombstone mines.

REDWOOD lumber and shingles now enter into our buildings and may be seen in our lumber yards.

From Tuesday's Daily.

Field Day in Tucson.

The magnificent success of the Tombstone Mill and Mining Company, as shown by the pile of bricks described in another column, was enough to awaken our most lethargic citizens and put a remarkably cheerful smile on every countenance not of an unimpeachable make-up; but to this was added news of the discovery, much nearer Tucson, of what looks fair to be the most famous silver ledge of the age. This ledge is located about fifty miles northwest of Tucson on the old Camp Grant road, and about seven miles from the Gila river. The lucky discoverers are J. S. Wallston and Peabody, two new hands at the business of prospecting. The ore they have brought to town and which may be seen at different business places is full of native and horn silver and also silver chlorides. The samples show that the threads and dikes and changes of silver are in the veins and veins of the ledge. The former seemed content with a consciousness of duties well performed and many rich rewards of love and labor, while the latter were beaming with hope and the realization of joys and happy duties just begun. The ceremony was after the Episcopal form and conducted by Rev. Wm. G. Mills. When this was finished and the words "I pronounce you man and wife" were spoken, the groom stepped in front of his bride and mother and in a fervent prayer expressed gratitude to Almighty God for the blessings that had strewn their pathway in the past and a supplication that each future year might bind them closer together, until the strength and fervor of their love should find boundless scope in a blissful eternity. Congratulations then followed, which were indeed sincere. The company next repaired to the dining-room, where the table was spread with all the bounties and luxuries of a wedding breakfast. These were disposed of amid much merriment and pleasantry. Then followed the bustle of preparation for departure, and at 1 o'clock the stage rolled out, carrying Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Hudson and Miss Laura Hudson, all bound for a visit to the coast. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will extend their visit as far as Colorado, where a sister of the groom now lives. The heartiest congratulations and good wishes of the community follow the newly married couple on their journey and wish them a joyous visit, a safe return and many years of conjugal bliss.

It has been proper to add that Mr. Anderson has labored constantly for nearly three years in this mission field and well deserves a brief vacation. The new church is now under roof, and the work will continue, under the supervision of Mr. Samuel Hughes, so that the building will be ready to occupy upon the return of the minister. Before leaving Mr. Anderson made arrangements with Rev. Mr. Mills to supply his pulpit during his absence, so the regular services will continue. During the building of the church Mr. Anderson has had many additional labors. His trip will rest him and he will return refreshed and prepared to begin his work anew in the new building.

The Restingmen's Party could find few recruits in Tucson just at this time. The recent good news from Tombstone, rich and large developments in Patagonia and exciting discovery of Wallstone and Peabody near San Pedro, have carried away not only most all our best citizens, but the regular services will continue. During the building of the church Mr. Anderson has had many additional labors. His trip will rest him and he will return refreshed and prepared to begin his work anew in the new building.

EXTENSIVE and destructive fires have raged for weeks past in the San Catalina and Rincon mountains within sight of Tucson. These fires ought not to occur but who can prevent them?

COMPETITION is giving us cheaper fruit. Four to five cents for lemons or oranges can now be had for 25 cents, whereas only a week or so ago but three of each could be had for that sum.

From Wednesday's Daily.

The lumber was received to-day of newly roofed Levin's Hall, and the carpenters are right on hand to put the work through with dispatch. A new redwood plank fence is being built around the Park. Mr. Levin has in contemplation the purchase of the field adjoining the Park on the West, and thereby enlarging the already spacious, shady and pleasant grounds. The addition will be planted with ornamental and unobtrusive trees and shrubs and flowers.

ROBERT MASON, from the upper San Pedro, who was held to answer upon a charge of an assault with intent to kill W. H. Drew, in a quarrel about water, was yesterday brought before Chief Justice French on a writ of habeas corpus. After hearing and considering the matter, the petition for discharge was by the court denied, and defendant remanded to the custody of the Sheriff and bail fixed in the sum of $500.

We regret to hear that THE CITIZEN does not reach our patrons at Charleston and Tombstone with any sort of regularity. We put the papers in the Tucson office with punctuality and care. We hope that whoever is at fault will be caught and simply do right hereafter. We only ask that our papers promptly pass through the mails according to their address.

MR. R. N. LEATHERWOOD and Charles O. Brown, with a good outfit, left this morning for the new silver find spoken of in yesterday's CITIZEN, near the mouth of the San Pedro. Many others whose names are not at hand have also come to investigate and get some of the rich stuff if possible.

BARNETT & BLOCK's train brought yesterday 18,000 pounds new merchandise from

Circulating Library—Post hotels in English and Spanish at J. S. Mansfield's Pioneer News Depot.

THE exhibition at the Park last night was largely attended. There were music, banners, torches, speeches and possibly some beer! The speeches touched upon the great future of this section and the present product and development of our mines, and incidentally referred to the silver bricks received from Tombstone, and shipped to-day for Philadelphia. It being the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, there was occasion for a little of "the spread eagle." All in all, there was a good and encouraging time.

RECOGNIZING the demand here for superior lumber and shingles dressed and plain, Mr. Samuel Hughes has filled up his yard on lower end of Main street with choice articles from California, and will keep a supply on hand to meet the wants of the people in and all round Tucson. See advertisement.

MR. C. T. CUTLER left to-day for his copper works in Sonora, taking with him Mr. A. H. S. civil engineer. Mr. C. means business down there and we believe he will succeed as he intends to do on a practical working basis realizing only on the products of his mine.

STEEL rails and telegraph poles continue to arrive for the Southern Pacific. Late advices from San Francisco are to the effect that are a great while the railway and telegraph will be in Tucson and the various buildings put up within the city limits.

From Thursday's Daily.

ANDERSON-HUDSON.

Wedding of Rev. J. E. Anderson and Miss Sophie Hudson.

A very interesting though somewhat complicated, or perhaps more properly complex, celebration took place this morning at the residence of our favored townsman, Mr. Charles Hudson. This 18th of June commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of Mr. Hudson's birthday. It also completes twenty-five years of wedded life for Mr. and Mrs. H.—their silver wedding—and was therefore deemed a most fitting occasion for the marriage of their daughter Sophie with the Rev. J. E. Anderson. At 10 o'clock the family gathered in the parlor and the groom entered with the bride leaning upon his arm, beautifully arrayed in white and bedecked with wreaths and buds of snowy purity. As they took their places on the floor the bride and groom of twenty-five years stood side by side with the bride and groom of to-day. The former seemed content with a consciousness of duties well performed and many rich rewards of love and labor, while the latter were beaming with hope and the realization of joys and happy duties just begun. The ceremony was after the Episcopal form and conducted by Rev. Wm. G. Mills. When this was finished and the words "I pronounce you man and wife" were spoken, the groom stepped in front of his bride and mother and in a fervent prayer expressed gratitude to Almighty God for the blessings that had strewn their pathway in the past and a supplication that each future year might bind them closer together, until the strength and fervor of their love should find boundless scope in a blissful eternity. New California Party.

Like other American people, the Californians always have the Democratic and Republican parties with them, and for over a year past they have enjoyed having a Workingman's party. An "aching void" has just been filled by the "Honorable Bilks" party, and naturally enough it has not quite met the many wants of that odd mixture of people, and so the "Restingmen's Party" has been organized. This last organization has long been needed in California. It is to have an organ called "The Spirit of Rest." The platform of the party contains the following, among other appropriate "principles":

More back room for pedro players. More free lunches, with a better variety of edibles. That whisky be furnished gratis to members of the party. That all men who work, either with hands or brains, be freed out of this party. That this party is a league of men who are tired and want to rest and will do it if they have to work a night and day playing poker to do it. That any man coming into this party must subscribe to a pledge, sworn to on a deck of cards as follows:

I, Harrison K. Dozenbury, being of unsound mind, and having a bad breath, do solemnly affirm that I have not done a day's work for the last four years. That I play pedro well and can set up longer and drink more fire-water than there is any sense in. I never refuse a treat when offered, never get 'em up; rest constantly.

THE Enterprise, of Prescott, believes in partisan organization. It consistently advocates it. It regards such organization of prime public importance, and it is properly commended for its zeal in this behalf. The fault that is found with it for devoting more space and ability to the subject than to the mining and other industrial pursuits of the Territory is not justifiable. It conscientiously believes in the overshadowing importance of partisan activity and strife. No reasonable person should expect it to give other matters more attention than it does.

THE Arizona Prospecting and Exploring Expedition, an organized company of fifty-nine men, having followed one James L. Hill nearly 1,000 miles in search of a rich deposit of gold he claimed he had discovered in Northern Arizona, in 1874, and proved to a certainty that his whole statement was a fabrication and a falsehood, wish to warn others against being deceived by him. We denounce him as a fraud and a liar. Wm. McCleod, Capt. E. G. Wager, Secy.

THE Chicago Real Estate and Mining Review for June notes the arrival of Col. Graham from Leadville, with reports of great business activity.

Dry Amalgamation.

As a subject having interest to all men engaged in mining for the precious metals, the following extracts from a long article in the Mining and Scientific Press of June 14 are republished:

The plan of dispensing with the use of water in effecting the amalgamation of quicksilver with the precious metals appears to be growing in favor with our millmen and practical metallurgists.

From Mark Silver, a young man who has had a good deal of experience in milling ores, we learn that one of the Paul crushers, supplied by a novel method of amalgamation, has been employed for the past six months with gratifying results in the mill of Charles D. Smyth, at Murphy's Camp, Calaveras County.

This experiment has created a demand for a twenty-stamp custom mill at this newly defunct camp, and so much new life has this improved prospect infused into the miners that there will probably be as much as forty or fifty additional stamps required there within the next six months.
